MAKE THE MOST OUT OF ATTENDING

Attending a careers fair is the ideal opportunity for you to start making connections and first impressions.

Without the pressure of a formal interview, it can be easier for you to give a confident account of yourself to potential employers, colleges or training providers.

- Make sure you register in advance.
- Think about your future career – who do you need to visit – make a list? For example, if you want to be an engineer, you may want to check out the training providers where you live and some of the employers who have opportunities in that sector.
- If you are thinking of progressing to A-levels – do you want to continue at your current school or join another sixth form or college?
- What information do you need and what questions do you want to ask? – it might be a good idea to prepare these in advance with help from your teachers or parents/carers.
- On the day, join the event as soon as you can and talk to as many exhibitors as possible.
- Be prepared to tell the exhibitors about yourself – your career aspirations, what you like to do, why you would be a good employee or student. Perhaps have your CV and predicted grades to hand.

For up to date information about which exhibitors will be attending, and the full itinerary for the day including workshops and talks visit www.cumbriacareersfair.co.uk
