SKILLS, LINKS AND PROGRESSION	Vocational business courses have been running in this school for over 25 years. Their purpose and approaches to teaching, learning and assessment are established and understood by teaching professionals, employers and learners. Students are able to gain the whole range of grades and can use these qualifications to progress onto higher education courses or into the world of work. Vocational business combines well with many other subjects, in particular French, German, English Language, geography and design. However, as many university courses now contain a business element, vocational business will combine with any subject at A Level.
